ICON DESCRIPTION

Adjustable straps allow the wearer to position the straps for maximum shoulder comfort and breast support.

Minimiser effect bra evenly divides your breasts over a wider surface, making them look smaller.

Back straps increase with size range.

Non-wired bra is a bra that does not have an underwire in the cups.

Padded shoulder straps for added comfort.

Underwire bras are designed to bring your weight closer to the front, while also slightly lifting them upwards.

Hook and eye fastening are made of soft and comfortable material.

Spacer fabric is designed to keep you feeling fresh and breezy because of its breathability. Spacer Bra is a lightweight alternative to the usual padded bra.

Hook and eye fastening increases with size range.

Seamless underwear is a particular type of undergarment that is crafted without visible seams. It is supposed to feel like "second skin".

Push-up bras effectively accomplish two things: visually bolster size for smaller-chested women and provide the necessary support for those with larger cups who struggle with back pain.

Seamless underwear is a particular type of undergarment that is crafted without visible seams. It is supposed to feel like a "second skin".

Half padded cups give a great lift from the base and have less coverage than most other bra styles.

Waist height differs depending on the size.

Padded cups are designed to enhance the perceived bust size and cleavage.

Nursing bra - a supportive garment for the breasts, worn while a new mum is either breastfeeding or during pregnancy. It has a latch to easily and quickly expose the nipple to breastfeed your baby. They also give extra support to engorged breasts that may be heavier than usual.

Side support is designed to function exactly as its name suggests: to support the sides of your breasts, to prevent them from spilling sideways.

Side bone keeps your sides firm pushing the tissues towards the front and giving you a sleeker silhouette.
