collection Spacer

A new way in shaped cups production is a cup with breathing effect made of spacer material. The basis of the cup is a monofilament thread that creates three-dimensional structure of the cup, which provides a number of positive properties, such as:

- comfort and a stable supporting effect;
- high breathability and hygroscopicity;
- lightness and elasticity;
- dimensional stability;
- colour stability;
- fast drying.

These features create a maximum wearing comfort and help greatly to adapt the product to the breast. The cups made of spacer material restore easily their shape after any mechanical action. They are smooth without seams and do not stand out from the clothing. A bra made of such "breathable" material of new generation provides a stable support for the breast and a feeling of comfort throughout the day.

Mademoiselle chante le blues

"Mademoiselle chante le blues" a song performed by Patricia Kaas, has inspired the company's designers to create the lace lingerie collection named after it. The melody of the song creates right mood featuring a one-time unique image and evoking a smooth melody of colours: mysterious and enigmatic black, electrifying and intriguing red, delicate and tender white. The lingerie play of colours and the harmony of hues create an illuminating effect, while a lace-entwined light-reflecting thread makes the silky fibres glow, this is why the collection looks so erotic and charming.
